Lilianfels shines at prestigious Tourism Accommodation Awards.

Lilianfels Blue Mountains Resort & Spa has won two coveted awards at the 2013 Tourism Accommodation Australia (NSW) Awards for Excellence. The Australian Hotel Association awards were held in Sydney last week and attended by over 600 guests including NSW Premier Barry O'Farrell.

The Lilianfels team was thrilled to win the award for Best Regional Deluxe Hotel Accommodation of the Year. Competing against other well known and highly thought of five star luxury properties in Regional NSW, this award reaffirms Lilianfels position amongst the best of the best.

The hotels acclaimed Darleys Restaurant, with Sydney Morning Herald hatted chef Lee Kweiz at the helm, was named Best Regional Restaurant of the Year. The award cements the already strong reputation the restaurant enjoys for fine dining and excellent service, provided within the stunning heritage trust listed house of the former NSW Chief Justice, Sir Fredrick Darley.

Escarpment Group General Manager, Ralf Bruegger, said Lilianfels has been providing service excellence, luxurious accommodation and enjoyable surrounds to guests for more than 20 years.

"Whilst we are delighted to have won these awards, especially considering the high caliber of the finalists, the team at Lilianfels and Darleys are focused on exceeding guests expectations everyday," said Ralf.

Lilianfels Blue Mountains Resort & Spa is a stylish, boutique 5-star resort located in the beautiful Blue Mountains and overlooking the Jamieson Valley. This stylish hotel features 85 luxurious rooms, indoor and outdoor pool, tennis court, lounge, library and games room, plus a rejuvenating and restful Day Spa.
